Subject: Microsoft settlement

Recommend further litigation against Microsoft in the interests of fair competition and true capitalistic economics :

1. Microsoft should be fined severely for attempting to develop a monopoly in software, as proven in court and so adjudged.
2. Microsoft should have the Operating System development separate from the applications development, by fair application of anti-trust law. Two separate entities, in other words.
3. Microsoft's OS code should be made available to all software developers to allow competitive applications development.
